Quilting (Deurstikwerk) is the process of sewing two or more layers of fabric together to make a thicker padded material. It is the stitching which holds the layers 'sandwiched' together while forming a decorative design.

Typically, quilting is done with 3 layers: the top fabric, batting or an insulating material and backing material, but many different styles are adapted.

This 'new' material is used to create articles or incorporate into articles such as quilted garments (fashion sewing), quilted bags, quilted bedcovers, quilted articles for the home such as cushions and quilted wall-hangings.
