The class is $10 and there will be three opportunities to attend: Thursday, May 2, from 2:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.; Thursday, May 2, from 6:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.; and Friday, May 3, from 9:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. The classes will be held at the LaQuinta Inn & Suites, 185 Warbonnet Dr., Moscow, Idaho. Ms. Cacciamani will teach a class for all quilters, beginners to advanced, and focus on the features that quilters need on a sewing machine, such as a great straight stitch, built in dual-feed, precise quarter-inch, blanket stitch and free-motion quilting.

The BERNINA 780 and the BERNINA 750 QE (Quilter's Edition) are part of BERNINA's new 7 Series line of sewing, quilting and embroidery machines that also features the BERNINA 710. Each 7 Series machine includes an extended freearm area with 10 inches of space to the right of the needle and a practical extension table with ample space to hold larger sewing projects. The 7 Series is also equipped with a color touchscreen and the integrated BERNINA Dual Feed, which tames hard-to-manage and fine fabrics.

Debbie Cacciamani is a BERNINA Resource Teacher in the Pacific Northwest. Her work has been featured on the WeAllSew blog and the BERNINA Web magazine Through the Needle Online.
